This can be used to instanceof check against a specific error class, such as AuthenticationError, ValidationError, etc.: formatError(err { if (err.originalError instanceof AuthenticationError) { return new Error('Different authentication error message'); } } ). To make context-specific adjustments to the error received by formatError (e.g. localization or personalization), consider using the didEncounterErrors lifecycle hook to attach additional properties to the error, which can be accessed and utilized within formatError. Avoid reporting an error based on other properties When generating an error (e.g., new ApolloError("Failure!")), the message is the most common property (in this case it's Failure!). origin: connect-foundation/2019-02const start = () => { mongoose.connect(process.env.DB_URL, dbConnectOptions,
